

JOURNAL

of the ILLINOIS STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Volume LXXIII / Number 3 / Autumn 1980

Contents

- 162 Freedmen's Farm Letters of Samuel and Louisa Mallory to "our absent but ever remembered boy" in McHenry County, Illinois
Carol N. Wenzel
- 177 Early Illinois Author John L. McConnel and "The Ranger's Chase"
John E. Hallwas
- 189 Andrew Johnson and the 1866 Illinois Election
Broeck N. Oder
- 201 The 1730 Fox Fort: A Recently Discovered Map Throws New Light on Its Siege and Location
Joseph L. Peyser
- 214 His Father's Son: Letters from the Robert Todd Lincoln Collection of the Illinois State Historical Library
James T. Hickey
- 235 Mother Jones, 1830-1930
- 238 Book Reviews

Picture Credits: Page 163, Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, July 12, 1862, p. 245; pages 173 and 175, courtesy of the author; pages 170, 172, 191, and 200, Harper's Weekly, June 23 (p. 392), June 2 (p. 340), Sept. 22 (p. 604), Nov. 3 (p. 696), 1866; page 178, Knickerbocker Gallery (New York: Samuel Hueston, 1855), p. 276; pages 182, 183, 185, and 187, John McConnel, Western Characters (New York: Redfield, 1853), title page, pp. 286, 319, 106, and 157; page 199, London Times Illustrated, May 6, 1865, p. 437; pages 204 and 205, courtesy of the author; page 206, J. F. Steward, Lost Maramech and Earliest Chicago (Chicago: F.H. Revell, 1903), p. 281; all others, Illinois State Historical Library.

Cover: "A Western Prairie Bee" from Godey's Lady's Book, June, 1850, the year in which John McConnel's first novels were published.