

Picture Credits: Cover (from right), My Book of History: A Picturesque Tale of Progress (Chicago: Book House for Children, 1929), end papers; Through Fairy Halls of My Book House (Chicago: Book House for Children, 1920), p. 11; Up One Pair of Stairs of My Book House (Chicago: Book House for Children, 1920), p. 317 [All Book House illustrations are reprinted with the kind permission of Tangley Oaks Educational Center, Lake Bluff, Ill., courtesy of Robert Davis.]; Olive Beaupré Miller, Whisk Away on a Sunbeam (Chicago: P. F. Volland Co., 1919), p. 45; pages 242, 275, 279, 285, Olive Miller family photographs and scrapbooks, courtesy of Virginia Miller Read, Tucson, Ariz.; pages 276, 277, courtesy of the author; pages 280, 281, Ron Harris, Virginia, Ill.; pages 283, 284, 286, Tangley Oaks Educational Center; page 288, courtesy of Gerry Newsome, Evanston, Ill.; pages 291, 293, 294, 299, W. S. B. Mathews, A Hundred Years of Music in America (Chicago: G. L. Howe, 1899), pp. 479, 139, 419, 323; pages 300, 301, George P. Upton, ed., Theodore Thomas, A Musical Autobiography, Vol. 1 (Chicago: A. C. McClurg, 1905), opp. pp. 354, 216; all others, Illinois State Historical Library.