

ILLINOIS HISTORICAL JOURNAL

Volume 88 / Number 2 / Summer 1995

Contents

- 79 The Demolition of the Garrick Theater and the Birth of the Preservation Movement in Chicago

Theodore W. Hild

- 101 Agriculture, Mentalités, and Violence on the Illinois Frontier

Carl J. Ekberg

- 117 Prairie Politician: William Andrew Jackson Sparks and the Politics of Honor During the Gilded Age

Leonard Schlup

- 135 Book Reviews

- 152 Picture Credits

Cover: The proposed demolition of the Garrick Theater Building in Chicago ignited a controversy that involved not only preservation groups but also the City of Chicago and the courts. Although the building was eventually torn down after a contentious battle, the preservation movement in Chicago was born. Theodore W. Hild's article on the Garrick Theater and Chicago preservation begins on page 79.